To the Families and Friends of the St Paul's Community.....

Dear Parents and Caregivers,

Firstly, my thanks to the St Paul's community and it's welcome to me over the last two weeks. It is certainly an interesting experience to return to St Paul's after a break away. I immediately recognised the great place this is, the students coming up to say hello, the renewing of friendships with staff and parents catching me around the college. I look forward to the coming weeks and keeping the College moving in the same direction that it clearly has set out in all areas.

As we move into the final 4 weeks of the term, we are at the stage of discerning our new Student Leadership Team for 2020. After an exhaustive process of application, voting, interviews and process, I am pleased to announce our new Student Leadership Team:

Abby Willcox

Grace Shrume

Nicholas Curran

Sam Jenkins

We congratulate these four students who will be leading our school into the future. I would also like to publicly congratulate all the students who put themselves forward as potential leaders of St Paul's. They are leaders as well and I know that they will continue to work to make this place the best it can be as Year 12 students and role models for the younger students. To our new leaders, well done and I look forward to your guidance, wisdom and working with the passion that you have for your school. The next 12 months will go quickly and I am excited about the wonderful legacy that you will leave.

Next week, I will be speaking to the Year 12 group about their final weeks at St Paul's. It is a wonderful time for our young men and women and a time of celebration for the staff as they finish courses, complete revision and enjoy the last formal lessons that will mark the end of each course.

For our students, it is also a time of reflection and for some, a time of trepidation. Thirteen years of formal, school based education is a significant time in their young lives. As they finish the year, they will reflect on the good times and the not so good times that schooling has brought. Some might be able to remember their first day at school. The tears from mum as they donned that little uniform and marched into kinder, no longer completely joined to the family unit but now exploring the big world. Others will remember significant events such as successes in sports carnivals, debating competitions, eisteddfods and concerts. Still others will remember fondly friends who have gone to other places.

For staff, it is also a time of reflection. It is a time where we remember the fun events, the retreats, the amazing lessons, the "light-bulb" moments in class, the surprising essay answer and the great relationships that have been formed in the years that Year 12 have been at St Paul's.

I discussed some of the areas where our young men and women will need to be mindful, particularly as they finish their time at the campus. We want all of them to finish well, to celebrate their time openly, honestly and with dignity. However, it would be neglectful of me if I didn't point out some of the pitfalls that can happen when young people get together and make foolish choices.

Earlier in the term, we sent out a letter to all Year 12 families outlining expectations we have at the end of the term. As well it listed the events that will mark the successful end to Year 12, beautiful events that will showcase our students.

In that letter, it was made clear that we do not have "Muck-Up Days" I intend to explain to the students exactly what we mean by that statement. As well, I will speak about such matters as parties, police, drugs and alcohol, uniform, school attendance, work ethic and study vacation.

At this time of the year, it is obvious to us adults that there will be more than the usual number of young people on the roads going to and from social events. This is certainly known to the Police. I will say to our students to be very mindful of that reality. At this time of the year, there is always a heightened police presence on the roads, particularly around schools. They will be there to protect other road users and our young drivers from making foolish decisions. In my experience, there will be one or two students booked near the school in the mornings or afternoons particularly around this time. I ask our students to be mindful of this and to make sure that they make good decisions as they drive to and from school.

End of year parties are a real issue for mums and dads as well as the Police. If you, as a parent, intend to host such a gathering, I strongly suggest that you visit the following website:

https://www.police.nsw.gov.au/online\_services/party\_safety/safe\_party\_tips where you can get some excellent advice on how to host such an event.

One of the main things that I will convey to Year 12 is the hope that they are all able to finish their time at St Paul's with dignity. The work being done by staff to help prepare them for their HSC as well as the massive work done to prepare and host the beautiful Graduation Ceremonies and events should give the students a real indication of the esteem that they are held in by the staff. In saying that, it is possible that some of our young people for whatever reason might think it a good idea to do something that will, in the short term, make a "mark" in their name. I have, in the past had a situation where a young person, who had been a model student throughout the time he was at school, decided to do something very foolish on the last day. As a result, he was unable to attend Graduation and the Final Dinner. As well, the significant award that he was to receive was not presented to him publicly. I will never forget the tears from mum and the boy as we sat in the Principal's office.

We want all our students to end the year well, to celebrate appropriately and to leave this wonderful place with dignity and pride. We want them to stay safe, to look after each other and to celebrate with family and friends in a gentle, special way. My final message to the students will be to look after one another; making sure that each and every one of them help with good decision making and guide one another through the last few weeks of formal schooling and continue to work hard up to the final exam period.

We look forward to the final week where we will celebrate with you all in the St Paul's Hall with the final Mass on Wednesday 25th September and the Graduation Ceremony the following morning.

Thank you again to all in the way the community has allowed me to begin my short time with the college as we move to celebrate the great successes of the year 12 Group.

All the best,

Mr Colin Mulhearn
Acting Principal

These past few weeks have seen a number of activities taking place in the area of Gifted Education as we prepare for 2020 and our role as a Gifted Education Lead school in the Lakes Region. In Week 5 our Middle Leaders met with Mrs Lauren McCafferty, our Gifted Education Mentor, and undertook some professional learning in relation to giftedness, assessment and identification of gifted children in our school. Following this, all students in Years 7 & 8 were assessed using the ACER COGAT tool, with results expected to be in at school over the coming weeks. This was the first step of the process in identifying our gifted students.

On Tuesday 27 August the teaching staff were involved in a professional learning meeting where Lauren again worked with staff on developing an understanding about the nature of giftedness and how this can be assessed. In future weeks our focus will shift towards pedagogy and differentiation in the classroom to cater for those students requiring our support and extension within our classrooms. This is an exciting time for St Paul's and we are looking forward to continuing our journey in this area.

Other areas of focus for us currently are the finalisation of subject selections for Years 8 & 10 students, the preparation of exams for Year 11 (commencing 9 September) and completion of Year 12 assessment and marks for HSC completion. In relation to subject selections and timetabling, students will receive a letter confirming their 2020 subjects once we can ensure staffing and viability of all subjects. Year 10 students and families will receive communication early in Term 4 regarding the final part of the Senior Enrolment process and the final weeks of Year 10.

Finally, to Year 11 students, I wish them every success in their upcoming exams and remind them of the expectations for Weeks 8 & 9, as outlined below.

Student Instructions for Stage 6 Examinations

- ◆ Students need only be at school when examinations are on. Misreading of the exam timetable will not be an acceptable excuse for being late or missing an exam.
- ◆ Students should ensure that they arrive at least 15 minutes before the commencement time for their scheduled exam, and remain until the exam's conclusion.
- ◆ Students attending school outside of exam times are expected to use the Library facility for private study where the Library is available. Students must SIGN IN at the library when on campus and are NOT permitted to be on any other part of the school grounds.
- ◆ Students are NOT Permitted to leave the school grounds after an exam finishes and then return again.
- ◆ Ensure that you have all necessary equipment required for each of your exams.
- ◆ Malpractice or cheating will result in serious consequences including the awarding of a zero mark. Behaviour in an exam is based on complete cooperation with supervising staff and respect for rights of other students in the room.
- ◆ Students missing an examination for any reason must ensure that the Absence, Illness, Misadventure Procedures are carried out. Notification to the school at the time of the exam, and subsequent completion of the appropriate Absence, Illness, Misadventure forms are mandatory requirements of this procedure.
- ◆ Wherever possible "catch-up" examinations should take place during the examination block, when the individual student concerned does not have a scheduled examination. These exams are to be organised with Leaders of Pedagogy or APT&L at the time of submitting the relevant Absence, Illness, Misadventure Procedures Form.
- ◆ Normal school uniform is to be respected and worn to examinations.
- ◆ The examination block commences on Monday 9 September 2019 and concludes on Thursday 19 September 2019.

Mrs Cathy O'Gorman

Assistant Principal—
Teaching & Learning

Uniform

Over the last few weeks several students have been issued with afternoon detentions as a result of not wearing the correct items of uniform. It is the College expectation that the correct uniform is always to be worn appropriately. If a student is unable to wear correct uniform on any day, they must bring a note of explanation from their parent or carer. This note needs to be signed by the Tutor Group teacher. This must only be temporary (a day or two.)

If a student receives three uniform infringements, a warning letter will be sent to parents explaining that the fourth uniform infringement will result in the child being issued with an afternoon detention. It is hoped that after three warnings, any or all, uniform issues will be corrected. If assistance is required to meet the uniform expectations, please contact Mrs Shipman.

At times, students have blatantly and intentionally ignored the uniform expectations of the College. It is expected that by agreeing to choose St Paul's as a place of learning that the uniform is always worn correctly and with pride.

Areas of concern have been incorrect shoes, socks and on the cooler days, incorrect jackets.

Additional Uniform Items

There has recently been an addition to junior and senior girls' uniform. Junior girls may now wear grey shorts and senior girls may wear navy shorts as part of the standard uniform. Lowes at Glendale and Verdon Hiles at Toronto are stocking the approved short options for $39.95-$49.95. Please note, these approved shorts are the only shorts that are to be worn with the school shirt.

These additional options will give the girls an alternative to the school skirt. It is hoped that by introducing this option, the girls will be encouraged to be more active during break times and allow them to be more comfortable during situations like assemblies. The wonderful models below show that the shorts maintain a high standard of dress for the school. The skirt will remain the primary option however, the short will also enable an alternative to the skirt.

Mrs Anne-Maree Shipman
Assistant Principal—Community & Wellbeing

We are now halfway through the Term and less than 2 weeks away from End of Course Examinations.

Students received their Examination timetables last week and Mrs O’Gorman went through the procedures for examinations with the cohort. Expectations in regard to process, uniform, requirements and absences were all made clear to the students and are included with the Examination Timetable.

Examinations occur between 9-19 September inclusive. Students are only expected to attend school for their particular examination but are invited to frequent the Library for study in between scheduled examinations.

The Leadership process is nearing its end. The 15 nominees addressed the school assembly Friday 16 August with honesty and confidence. Voting took place and now eight (8) nominees are preparing themselves to be interviewed on Wednesday 28 August. We wish Sam, Joshua, Jaime, Nicholas, Maggie, Teleah, Grace and Abby well.

Following on with our ex-student talks, we welcomed Jed Webster (brother of Riley Year 11) last Thursday to address the Year 11 cohort. Jed is currently in his third year studying primary teaching at nearby Avondale College. Jed talked to the students about his journey through senior school and how he ventured into primary teaching. He also discussed his reasoning behind the decision to choose Avondale over Newcastle University, and then talked about the benefits of this smaller facility. Jed gave some advice to the students on how to best finish their school years and wished them all well for the future. We thank Jed for his generosity in giving up his time to enhance ours.

We wish Madison Freeman well this weekend as she represents St Pauls at the 2019 Catholic Earthcare Youth Eco-Summit in Sydney. I know that Madison has been spending lots of her own time attending meetings and getting prepared for the summit, and we thank her (and her parents) for their time and efforts.

Friday Sport

This term sees Year 7 students participating in a myriad of activities. Groups 1 and 2 are enjoying gymnastics at Hunter Sports Centre, Glendale, while Groups 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 are rotating through different activities such as squash, fitness class, mixed sports on the oval and having fun in the Splash Zone

BYOD

There have been quite a number of students without a working device/laptop recently. I encourage parents to have a conversation their child/ren to check if they have experienced any problems with their device or if they are not charging their devices at night. Our trained IT specialists are available before school and during both breaks to see students and they are quite accessible at the Student Hub. It is important that students have a working device to maximise their opportunities for learning.

Brainstorm Production – Sticks and Stones

Last week we were treated to an entertaining and highly engaging performance that covered topics such as resilience, bullying, safe online behaviour and problem solving. Year 7 students were very well-behaved, and I congratulate them on the way they participated when asked. Whilst watching the performance I made a few notes, which I shared with students and are outlined below.

- ◆ I am looking to make/purchase some juggling balls for Year 7 students to use – this was part of the act and quite popular with students
- ◆ Draw your own line about what you do and don't like and how you want to be treated.
- ◆ What one person thinks is teasing or 'mucking around' and acceptable is not necessarily what another person thinks is ok and students need to reflect on this and how they treat others.
- ◆ You WILL get rejected/fail many times in your life (e.g. miss out on a job, relationship break up, get turned down by someone, etc.). How will you deal with it? How will you respond when things don't go your way?
- ◆ There are a range of supports available for students – from people at school, including the Year 7 Coordinator (me!), our Pastoral Care Worker and School Counsellors; to online and phone supports such as Kids Helpline (1800 55 1800), www.reachout.com, Apps, such as Headspace, Smiling Minds and Stop, Breathe & Think. There are many more resources available – please see me if you would like to know more.
- ◆ I finished with two words for Year 7 students to reflect upon. These words were used in the Brainstorm presentation and also by Mr Mulhearn, our College Principal, when addressing the junior students the previous day. These words are Empathy and Respect.

Parents may wish to talk to their child/ren about the performance and what they gained from it.

Today's quote is not from an athlete, but from the Brainstorm Production. It is in reference to the advice given to a character who thought physical conflict or 'mouthing off' were the only responses when he got upset or angry or when things didn't go his way.

"Find other ways to solve your problems"

Take care,

Mrs Tracey Evans
Student Coordinator

50 Word Story Competition

For the past four weeks, the annual 50 Word Story Competition has been running. This encouraged students to write 50 original and creative words on the theme 'Secret Power'. The entries were outstanding and showcased the sophistication and imagination of our young writers here at St. Paul's Catholic College.

The following overall year group winners are to be congratulated on their fantastic work:

Kirrily Boslem Year 7, Rosemary Hale Year 8, Sophie Crowley Year 9, Matt Sheather Year 10, Danielle Roberts Year 11, Adam Foster Year 12, Overall Teacher Winner – Mrs Nicole Burns.

'The winners collecting their certificate and cinema gift card prize.'

Shipwreck

Matt Sheather Year 10 Overall Winner

I tune into the sound of the breaking waves as I dive into the deep depths of sea, the comfort of the reef leaves me as I take a deep breath. Saltwater fills my lungs as I swim towards it; the shipwreck that made me discover my secret power.

Garden

Our tired, pale faces are wrapped in suburban worries, too scared to mention the dream nestled inside.

A brave light moves it, pulling through the thaw.

Dreams sprouting slowly with the hope hidden in a smile.

Every smile brings a blossom.

Yours, his, her smile too.

Building our garden together.

'A World of Stories'

The latest contribution to our 'A World of Stories' collection comes from Year 7 student, Chalize Bathman. Charlize is a beautiful writer who shows a gift for using vivid imagery to create mood and setting.

Gone with the Night

Charlize Bathman

The rain pelted little crystal water droplets against my window, the house unusually peaceful. The front door clicked open and someone stumbled into the house, trailed closely by another figure. Yelling ensued, and the harsh noise of my parents fighting reverberated through the house. Suddenly, the noise halted and the silence that followed almost eerie.

I crept towards the stairs and investigated what had happened. Standing at the top I watched the scene unravel before my very eyes. The dastardly noise rang across the room, echoing off the walls. One person was left standing with the other now lying limp on the hard floor. He had snapped and I didn't want to be his next victim. I shuffled back down the hall. I cautiously looked into all the rooms, looking for places to hide in the enclosed darkness. The shadow cast by the moon in one room caught my eye and caused me to abruptly stop. My mother's orange kimono hung from a coat hanger. It was in pristine condition, embraced by the shadows. My head flooded with painful memories of a better time. I dashed down the hall and back into the security of my room. I crawled under the covers, holding my head in my hands in disbelief.

I cried an ocean that night. My father must have assumed I was asleep and I struggled alone with the tragedy. My brain couldn't comprehend this situation, but I knew that I would have to do something. An idea struck me like lightning, and a plan quietly unfolded from there.

I slipped down the stairs and out the front door, hearing the gentle click as I slipped on my coat almost in a trance. I prayed that my aunt would believe me as my future hinged on this.

Stratford Street is where my aunt lived at the time, located only a block away from my house. Sprinting through the rain as it bombarded my body, I banged on my aunt's front door frantically calling for her help. She answered groggily but when her eyes fell on me, they widened in a mixture of shock and understanding. She quickly ushered me inside. I hastily explained to her my problem. She hurried me into her bedroom and returned with shoes and a jacket.

We arrived at my home swiftly. She swung open the front door of my house and gasped at the crimson pool of blood on the carpet. A shrill scream came as she ventured further into the house.

Sirens blared from outside and my father was escorted out of the house with handcuffs tightened around his wrists. He looked back at me from the police car with sorrow in his eyes. I shook my head and snuggled into my aunt's coat. I asked myself if it was strange to feel no empathy towards him but concluded that it was not.

I had been distracted on one night and my whole life had slipped right through my hands like water. I only returned to that house for my mother's orange kimono, a cherished symbol of her light and love. This memory I would hold onto tightly, that house I would try to forget.

Book Week

We celebrated Book Week during Week 5. It was fantastic to see so many students and staff get involved with all of the different activities designed to remind students about the importance of literacy and promote a love of reading.

The week kicked off on Monday with the guessing competition where students were asked to guess how many of our library resources had something to do with this year's theme, 'Reading is my Secret Power'. Rosemary Martin from Year 12 took out the prize.

Tuesday saw students and staff participating in the 'Selfie Shelfie Challenge'. This involved matching teachers' selfies with pictures of the book shelves (shelfies). It was very interesting to hear the way the students tried to match book titles, style of bookshelf, number of books and even cleanliness to different teachers to come up with their answers. The winners were Ella Thomas from Year 9 and Mr Simon Pearse from the staff.

Wednesday was in many ways the main event! Students and staff were encouraged to dress up as their favourite literary character. The day began with the inter tutor group challenge with many tutor groups showing extensive knowledge of a range of novels. The discriminating question ended up being, 'In the Harry Potter series, how many broomsticks are flown in a game of quidditch?' Many knew there were two teams of seven but most forgot the referee. That brought it down to a tie breaker between 11.7 and 9.7 who both got full marks. After asking for what year the Miles Franklin Literary Prize was first awarded, Bayley Thurston got the closest so Mrs Burns 11.7 will be enjoying the pizza lunch.

Then it was time for the costume judging. The judges, Mr Colin Mulhearn (acting Principal), Mrs Libby Lucas (Leader of Literacy) and Mrs Kerri Beezley (Librarian) expressed early their preference for home made costumes. They had a tough job, but here are the winners:

Year 7: Lucy Drinkwater as Mr Strong.

Year 8: Jace Lawless as Deadpool.

Year 9: Sindy Richards and Shelby Kincaid as Woody and Jesse.

Year 10: Isabella Mahony as the Cheshire Cat.

Year 11: Bayley Thurston as St Mark, Wil Negline as Jesus and Owen Winter as Judas.

Year 12: It was hard to part them (lol bad English teacher pun) so the large group of Year 12 who represented the Red Sea and Matt Potter as Moses took out the prize. The live action replay of Moses' famous moment really got them over the line.

Good Luck to all our HSC Creative Arts and Languages Students!

As we head into the final stages of Term 3 and formal classes for Year 12, I would at this point like to acknowledge the hard work and commitment of our Creative Arts and Language students. Whilst they, like everyone else, are working hard with their teachers to cover the last content components, complete practice tests and engage in invaluable feedback sessions, our Creative Arts and Language Students are actually completing their final performances and handing in their final submissions for their actual HSC. All that they have been working towards over the HSC course, projects that for many represent their passion and the peak of their creative career, will be completed over the next few weeks. What an achievement! On behalf of the St Paul's community, I would like to wish our HSC Creative Arts and Languages students luck in completing these tasks. We have watched you pour your heart and soul into your works throughout your time at the college and we have faith in each and every one of you that you are capable of achieving your best on the day. So please, be confident, have trust in your teachers and their guidance, and be proud of what you have achieved thus far.

To the St Paul's community, please be aware that your fellow students will be undertaking formal examinations over the next few weeks. There will be times when you will be asked to avoid areas, be part of an audience, set up an artwork or move some tables, change rooms or to be mindful of the noise in the yard. We would like to thank-you for these little efforts that you can make to support your fellow students during such an important time for them.

Finally, you are all invited to view the HSC Visual Arts Body of Works as a feature of the ArchiPaul's Prize and Art Exhibition. The Exhibition will be held on the evening of Tuesday, 3rd of September from 6.30pm in the College Hall. We look forward to seeing you all !

On the 15th August, the Year 12 Drama students performed their group pieces in front of friends and family for the final time. The first performance titled, 'Amigo/Ami/Hombre/Friend' explored the political parallels between the French Revolution and modern day France. With it's beautiful sound scapes, integration of French dialogue and political message, the students highlighted their skilful ability to integrate their cross curricula knowledge in to their performance.

The second group performance, titled, 'The Ties That Bind' was a controversial piece about toxic masculinity in Australian culture. The ensemble were inspired by the course texts, 'Norm and Ahmed' and 'The Removalists'. The core of the piece questioned society on commonly accepted social behaviour and this was highlighted through their strong physicality and visceral language.

The students will continue working on their group and individual performance until the HSC examiners visit St Paul's on 4th September.

The night also showcased students' independent projects, including: scriptwriting, poster and program design, review writing, video drama and performance. Friends and family were impressed with the sophistication of the projects and commented on their integration of Drama terminology and skill.

It is a week now until the final performance and I wish the Year 12 students nothing but success on their examination day. I want to congratulate the hours of dedication they have shown to working on both their independent and group projects (many of which occur outside of scheduled lessons).

I am so proud of the work they have put in; there are very little things that are as satisfying as watching a final work come together.

Girls 9s Rugby League – Caitlin Moran Cup

On Tuesday 20th August, the Opens and U16 Girls Rugby League teams played against other local schools in the Caitlin Moran Cup.

The U16s team dominated their pool, comfortably moving through to the final. In a tight affair St Paul's went down by one try to Hunter Sports High.

The Opens team played a straight out final against Irrawang High School. From the outset, the Booragul girls were too skilful, too physical and too fast for their opposition. A wonderful team effort saw the Opens team win the Caitlin Moran Cup.

Congratulations to all of the girls for their effort on the day.

Senior Girls

Under 16's girls

Kesheni 2019, an experience that has changed me, for the better! Kesheni means 'stay awake', I did not understand what this really meant until after I came home and reflected on my journey.

We had met as a group prior to leaving for Kenya and we had read Ann Cerreto's book 'I Am Because We Are, Stories of Kibera's Youth, we listened to others who had already experienced Kesheni but still I was unaware of the impact this journey would have on me.

All my family, friends and colleagues wished me a great holiday, but this was far from a holiday, I have never had an experience quite like this and I hope to one day return to Nairobi and the wonderful people I met.

We spent our first few days visiting and learning about The Ruben Centre, which is like a sanctuary in the middle of Mukuru slum. It contains a Health Clinic, HIV clinic, a birthing centre, a day care for infants, the Kurt Fearnley centre for disabled students, a primary school, a counseling service for the students. They also have their own sustainable garden, charcoal making facility, vocational education centre with weaving and sewing classes, a shop (where we purchased many beautiful hand made things to bring home) and a radio station, Ruben FM. After visiting Ruben, I thought, 'what else could we be doing, we have done so much and seen so much wonderful work'. How wrong was I!

The days that followed saw us visiting other wonderful agencies such as Wings of Hope Home (a place for young girls who find themselves pregnant through no fault of their own), Mary Rice Centre for disabled children in Kibera, Women for Women centre and Mother Teresa Home for the Destitute. All these places were so confronting and for some of us, overwhelming.

For me, one of the most powerful and enlightening experiences I had was walking through Kibera slum with my Karibu Youth Leader, Marell, and visiting her home with her. It is impossible to describe this experience, all your senses are assaulted and it is difficult to breathe.

Every corner you turn through this maze of rusty tin you are confronted with more alleyways, more rubbish, more poverty. The slum is the largest in the world, home to more than 2 million people. The homes are simple, some in better condition than others. There is no bathroom in the houses, therefore no toilet, no kitchen, just a small living space and a curtain to separate the sleeping area. I will forever remember this not because of how confronting it was but for the love, sense of community and pride these people have.

The Karibu Youth Camp was a highlight of the trip, seeing the young leaders that have grown up in Kibera, giving up their time to be with the children of Kibera, to give them a day away from the slum, a day of play, to run in the open, play games, work in teams and forget their everyday life. It was amazing.

Of course we got to have some downtime and visited the African markets, Bomas Cultural Centre, a day in Nairobi National Park, a drive to see Rift Valley, Sheldrick's Elephant Orphanage and the Giraffe Manor. Then each night we came home to the Little Daughters of St Joseph's convent where we were staying for a debrief and a wonderful African meal prepared by the nuns.

Now I know what Kesheni really means... 'Stay awake' to what is going on around you, what you see on the surface is so little of what is really out there. Stay connected with your community, work together; for alone you can do little but together you can make a difference. Don't think of yourself as one, but as part of a bigger picture. For the world to be a better place, we need to look after each other and love each other, support those with little and help those with nothing and always remember that love and forgiveness is key to happiness.

I will be forever grateful for this opportunity, to have experienced it with 9 other wonderful educators, to have made life long connections and to have been led by Michael and Alison Slattery was truly an honour.

Outdoor gym study aiming to give the masses more strength

In partnership with Lake Macquarie City Council and Newcastle City Council, University of Newcastle researchers are recruiting for a new, nationally-funded trial that blends smartphone technology with park-based fitness facilities to encourage community exercise in the great outdoors.

The study, called ecofit, involves aerobic and resistance (weight-bearing) training for a full-body workout that's fast, fun and free for anyone aged 18-80 who isn't meeting physical activity guidelines.

A purpose-built app will guide participants through correct usage of outdoor gym equipment located in seven public parks and trails across Newcastle and Lake Macquarie, including the Fernleigh Track at Adamstown, Lambton, Warrabrook, Speers Point, Pasterfield Sports Complex in Cameron Park, Warners Bay and Wangi Wangi. As the study progresses, additional parks will be added to the smartphone app.

GPS tracking enables the app to know which exercise station is being used, and when, along any of the three-kilometre circuits or trails.

Participants must be willing to complete at least two self-guided sessions per week during the 12-week program, taking an estimated 30 minutes each. There are beginner, intermediate and advanced workouts, depending upon fitness level and prior exercise experience.

Professor Ron Plotnikoff, Director of the UON's Priority Research Centre for Physical Activity and Nutrition and co-leader of the HMRI Cardiovascular Research Program, says that ecofit is designed more for the average person than those with rippling muscles.

"Health guidelines recommend adults get 150 to 300 minutes of moderate exercise each week, including at least two days of resistance training," Professor Plotnikoff said. "But a lot of people are deterred by the cost of gym memberships, concerned about injury, or just feel intimidated and embarrassed walking into a gym."

"Outdoor activity, however, has lots of advantages, including being free and highly social. Studies also show that it improves mental health and mood, perhaps even more than indoor exercise sessions."

The study will assess participants' physical activity levels, weight, aerobic and muscular fitness, and mental health at the start of the study and again at three and nine months later. Those randomised to the study's control group will receive the app at the nine-month stage.

"Our pilot study targeted people with type 2 diabetes or pre-diabetes with great improvement in physical and mental health, but this trial is targeting the whole adult population in the community," Professor Plotnikoff added. "We want to see how the program performs in the real world with the general population, so we'll host a group training session at the park then let them loose."

Groups of up to four people can enrol, or it can be done individually with access to a closed Facebook group for social support. Numbers will be capped at around 300 participants.

To enrol, please email ecofit@newcastle.edu.au for additional information.

* The ecofit trial is being conducted by Professor Ron Plotnikoff, from the University of Newcastle. HMRI is a partnership between the University of Newcastle, Hunter New England Health and the community. This project has been approved by the University's Human Research Ethics Committee, Approval No. H-2018-0060.
